Broadcast Courses In Journalism Dept.

WASHINGTON

Broadcasting courses at the American University have been transferred to the Department of Journalism and Public Relations, according to Dr. Ray E. Hiebert, chairman of the department.

The broadcasting division was formerly a part of the Speech Arts Department. Both bachelor's and master's degree programs are offered in all three areas: journalism, public relations, and broadcasting.

The department offers 56 courses and has approximately 200 majors, and has advisory responsibility for the AM and FM radio stations, as well as the student newspaper, yearbook, and magazine.

Two members from the broadcasting division join the full-time faculty of the Department in the transfer. They are Dr. Donald Williams, professor and director of broadcasting, and Roger Penn, assistant professor and technical director of WAMU-AM-FM.
